Twin County Service Company is a member of Illinois Farm Supply Company, an affiliate of the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Entertainment during the program was furnished by Blue Ribbon 4-H club of Stonefort, directed by Mrs. Sim Richerson Sr.

Girl, Boyfriend Sought in Slaying Three in Family

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Police today sought a girl, 15, and her young boyfriend in the slaying of her parents and baby stepister whose shrouded bodies were found hidden in a chicken coop and another out building.

Authorities also sought to link the runaways, Carol Fugate and Charles Starkweather, 19, with the recent unsolved murder of a nearby service station attendant.

A preliminary autopsy showed two of the victims, Mrs. Velda Bartlett, 36, Carol's mother and her stepfather, Marion, 57, were killed by bullet wounds in the head.

The couple's daughter, Betty Jean, 2, died of a skull fracture and lacerations.

Police Capt. Joe Harbaugh said the victims were neatly wrapped in a quilt and blue-green wrapping paper and hidden in out buildings behind the Bartletts' home in Lincoln's Belmont area.

The bodies were found late Monday by a son-in-law of Mrs. Bartlett and Starkweather's brother. Carol and Starkweather, described as a "husky youth with light red hair," were believed to have fled in a dilapidated 1949 Ford.

Police speculated the triple slaying might be connected with the Dec. 1, 1957, murder of Robert Colvert, 21, a service station attendant who was killed by a shotgun blast on a lonely country road.

Hint Evidence of Airline Favors for CAB Members

Probers Examine Books of Swank Country Clubs

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators have unearthed evidence purporting to show that airline executives have lavishly entertained members of the Civil Aeronautics Board, it was learned today.

The disclosure followed public hints the investigators have evidence of possible "misconduct" and White House interference in decisions by the CAB, the government agency that controls air lines.

Details of additional evidence were not available. But the investigators of a special House Commerce subcommittee were reportedly examining the books of swank country clubs near the capital and in Georgia.

Industry sources said the probers were carefully checking the airlines to determine sums spent on entertaining members of the CAB.

A subcommittee source said evidence thus far was "as bad" as that dug up on the Federal Communications Commission. A subcommittee staff report charged that some FCC members have accepted color television sets and other costly "favors" from the broadcast industry. Several FCC members have publicly defended their actions as legitimate and proper.

Subcommittee Chairman Morgan M. Moulder (D-Mo.) said his group will take up the charges against the FCC next Monday. This would make the FCC the first of six independent federal agencies under investigation to have charges of "personal misconduct" formally examined.

"We are compelled to take the FCC up first," Moulder said, "because of the publicity given to the staff report." The staff report, which has not been officially made public but contents of which have "leaked" to the press, contained the charges against FCC members.

Graveside Service Held for Infant

Pamela, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Portee, Carrier Mills, died at 11 a. m. Monday in the Harrisburg hospital, where she had been born five hours earlier. Her body was taken to the Thornton funeral home, Carrier Mills, and at 3 p. m. a graveside service was held at Lake View cemetery. The mother of the child is the former Brenda Williams.

Hope for Better Understanding

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. leaders today hailed the signing with Russia of an exchange pact embracing radio and television broadcasts as a possibly historic departure in improving East-West relations.

If all goes smoothly, authorities said it might be possible to arrange the first swap of radio-TV broadcasts dealing in international problems by this spring.

Some were frankly skeptical, however, whether after agreeing in principle to the exchange the Russians actually would permit President Eisenhower and other U. S. officials to give their views openly over Soviet-operated air waves.

If the exchange does come about, U. S. officials said it could "blaze a new trail" to understanding between Russians and Americans that in turn could resolve the missile-tense cold war. Some congressmen were equally optimistic over potentialities of the agreement, which would open up a wide range of other cultural contacts barred at present.

Rep. John M. Vorys (R-Ohio) said once Russians learn more about Americans they will "disbelieve what the party line" tells them. "They'll know we are not warmongers and not a bunch of barbarians."

Army Sets 1962 Date for Defense Against Missiles

U. S. May Have Baby Moon in Sky Minutes After Launching Jupiter C

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States may have a baby "moon" in the sky five minutes after the Army's Jupiter C missile is launched from here, probably this week.

The Jupiter C, if all goes well, will take just about that long to blast off from the cape, drop off three stages one by one, and send the final stage payload hurtling parallel to the earth 300 miles up and at 18,000 miles an hour into elliptical orbit.

That would be half the time the Navy Vanguard takes to do the job.

The Army was ordered in November to ready the Jupiter C, for a satellite attempt, but it was not expected to come before another try with the Vanguard, which exploded on its pad Dec. 6 in the nation's initial rocket effort.

But the Navy rocket developed serious trouble during several attempts to launch it last week and apparently is being repaired. Another launching try is expected soon, but it is not known just when.

As in the case of the Vanguard, it will take about two hours to determine whether the Jupiter C has put its satellite into orbit.

The switch from the Vanguard to the Jupiter C for the satellite attempt was not planned in any sense and has nothing to do with a "race" between the Army and the Navy to put the first U. S. man-made moon into orbit with Russia's Sputnik II.

Still it is a change from the philosophy of using a highly refined and complex scientific instrument — the Vanguard — to do the job.

The Jupiter C depends on comparative simplicity of design and sheer power.

Basically, the Jupiter C is a combination of the short range Redstone ballistic missile and 15 smaller solid fuel rockets, all of which have been flown time and again successfully and are in operational status. The entire assembly also has been test flown successfully.

Stratton says state and county fairs "are more necessary than ever before" in this age of Sputniks.

The governor spoke Monday night at the annual meeting of the Illinois Association of Agricultural Fairs and scoffed at what he said were critics' claims that rural fairs are "old fashioned."

He said fairs offered a needed way for persons to "relax and forget about the Sputniks far up in the sky."

Stratton also said fairs were a good weapon against juvenile delinquency that provide "many opportunities for our younger people."

Stratton promised the fair group there would be no effort to slash state appropriations for fairs in his 1959 budget.

Approve State School Claims Of $93.7 Million

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — State aid claims totaling $93,763,960 for Illinois school districts were approved Monday by Superintendent of Public Instruction Vernon L. Nickell.

The claims cover the school year that started last fall and are based on average daily attendance in the districts for September and October as provided by law.

Payments will be made on the basis of the September and October attendance, then adjustments to correspond with actual attendance over the whole school year will be made in September, 1958.

The claims approved included $21,461,693 for the Chicago school district, and $12,328,318 for other districts in Cook County, with the remainder of the claims going downstate.

Convicts Strike At Montana State Prison

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP) — More than 230 defiant convicts, ignoring cold and hunger, refused to return to their individual cells in the Montana State Prison today or end a day-old sitdown strike—latest disturbance since last July 30 when they rioted.

The strike began after breakfast Monday. The prisoners refused to work in the prison shops.

Returned to the cell block in which they rioted about six months ago, the defiant convicts jammed benches between the walls and doors of their individual cells so guards could not close them.

They won't be fed until they comply with the order to return to their cells and if hunger won't work, guards hope to freeze the convicts into submission. Heat was reported shut off in the cell block shortly before midnight but Warden F. O. Burrell went home to bed and could not be contacted for confirmation.

Although lights still burned in the early morning darkness, guards appeared to have the situation under control. They reported a calm quiet night.

Burrell went behind the gray stone walls late Monday night to investigate reports of a mysterious light flashing from the top of the cell block. At least two local citizens reported seeing the light flashing to someone outside of the prison.

The flashing stopped as soon as Burrell went in. A spokesman reported he did not find the source. The warden said he had no idea what caused the strike.

Maj. Gen. Daley Sets Target Under Speedup

Congress Works on Power for Ike to Beef Up Allies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said in testimony published today that it could establish a defense against ballistic missiles by 1962 if it program is accelerated.

Maj. Gen. John P. Daley, Army director of special weapons, gave this target date to the House Armed Services Committee in closed door testimony last Wednesday.

With a speed-up, Daley said, "we believe that a significant capability could be gotten against ballistic missiles by 1962."

Fashioning a defensive system for detecting an enemy ballistic missile as it approaches at 15,000 miles an hour and shooting it down is considered one of the most difficult problems now facing U. S. military scientists.

May Ask More Funds

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy recently gave the Army the job of developing a weapons system for defense against long-range, high-speed missiles. The Air Force was given the job of building up a system to detect the approach of enemy missiles.

One so-called antimissile missile on which the Army is working is the Nike-Zeus.

In other defense developments: —Congress went to work on a request to give President Eisenhower authority to beef up Allied defenses by supplying information and materials to make atomic weapons.

Rains Feed Rising Rivers in New England

By United Press

Rain mixed with snow today fed rising rivers in New England — now at their highest levels since Hurricane Diane flooded the region in 1955.

The added precipitation followed in the wake of a month-long series of heavy snows and rain last week end. Three Massachusetts communities—Dedham, Norwood and Walpole—received mild flooding when the Charles and Neponset rivers overflowed their banks.

Across the nation, an all-out search was on for a Boy Scout who has been lost for three days in the frigid and rugged Mendocino National Forest near Willows, Calif.

Temperatures have been at or near freezing both nights Dennis Wurschmidt, 12, has been lost, but authorities were hopeful he still was alive.

Widespread rain and snow activity occurred across the nation early today. A broad belt extending across the northern tier of states from Iowa to the Atlantic seaboard received rain and snow for the third day in a row. Albany, N. Y., received about one inch of snow since Monday night.

Freedom for Venezuela

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

When even the beginnings of freedom come to another nation on this earth, it is an event to be hailed by all who prize liberty for themselves. In that spirit, Venezuela's overthrow of the Jimenez dictatorship is warmly welcomed everywhere in the free world.

Freedom becomes more secure as it expands its borders, and suffers as they contract.

It will be no small advance if free men can now find at their side a nation so well fortified in resources and a people so full of the promise of growth and development.

Living almost within the shadow of the United States, the Venezuelans know that the virtues of freedom are no false legend. Moreover, it is clear now that the urge to be free burned within them even while they endured the whiplash rule of the dictator.

Their first stirrings were put down. But they refused to be denied. A fresh revolt was sparked, and broke its bounds.

To Americans, who cherish the role of the press as one prime guardian of their liberties, it must seem especially fitting that the bloody civilian street fighting which led directly to Jimenez' downfall was led by a Venezuelan newspaper reporter.

As so often in Latin American rebellions, a military junta is temporarily in command. It has made a good start by turning loose a thousand political prisoners, decreeing amnesty for exiles, and instituting other reforms.

Venezuela's bold thrust against tyranny will not be complete, however, until there are free elections and a new government thus chosen.

This part of the story is still to be told. But the opening chapters are greatly heartening. There can not be much doubt that the vigorous and talented people of Venezuela wish with all their hearts to become enduring members of the family of free nations.

Pot vs. Kettle

At Chicago President Eisenhower declared that the nation's defense problems ought to be off-limits to politicians in this congressional election year.

This is a sentiment that most Americans probably support warmly. Where their security is plainly involved, people want no hocus-pocus of false charge and counter charge. They want both major parties to collaborate in a quest for truth, and where necessary to translate that truth into legislative action.

But they must have read with some puzzlement, on the very same morning reports of the President's talk appeared, that White House aide Sherman Adams had blasted the Democrats in a Minneapolis speech for allegedly playing politics with defense.

If politics in defense is to be barred, one would guess that you have to make a start by avoiding accusations at the outset that the other fellow already has broken the rules.

"Is It Contagious, Amigo?"

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: John Roosevelt Has New Job Representing Haiti; Haitian Government Wants To Soften Dulles's Wrath Over Murder Of An American.

WASHINGTON. — Three potent Republicans have just been hired by the Haitian government to handle its public relations, especially in the matter of the murder of an American citizen. They are:

John Roosevelt, youngest son of the late President and only Republican member of the family. Retainer: $150,000.

Charlie Willis, son-in-law of Harvey Firestone of the Firestone Rubber Co. and a former White House aide to President Eisenhower. Retainer: $50,000.

Douglas Whitlock, formerly of the Republican National Committee staff and organizer of the Eisenhower campaign train in 1952. Retainer: $50,000.

Wesley Roberts, former chair man of the Republican National Committee who was dropped after an expose of his lobbying activities in Kansas, is also doing some work for the Haitians, but not directly. He is working for his former assistant, Whitlock.

Chief work of this battery of high-placed Republicans at the moment is to soften the State Department's demands on Haiti for proper compensation, apology, and punishment for the brutal murder of an American citizen, Shibley Talamas.

Talamas learned the police wanted him for questioning and checked in at the police station in Port-Au-Prince, whereupon he was brutally beaten to death.

What made the murder worse was the fact that the American consul, knowing the trigger-happy habits of Haitian police, had secured advance assurance that Talamas would not be mistreated. When his body was found next day, it was a mass of bruises from the neck down.

Haitian military strong-arm man Antonio Kebrau, the real man behind the Haitian government, upheld the Haitian police, claimed Talamas died of a heart attack while resisting arrest.

Secretary Dulles, however, has made strong demands that the Talamas family be compensated and that the guilty be punished. He is threatening to cut off economic aid to Haiti until these demands are fulfilled.

It's the present job of the three high-placed Republicans to soften Dulles's wrath. Willis and Whitlock have talked to the State Department, suggesting that the Haitian government merely apologize, pay no indemnity. John Roosevelt has suggested the same thing.

John informed this column that he also advised the Haitian government: "Your economic future is dependent on the good will of the United States."

Regardless of influential Republicans, the State Department is standing pat.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D. (Written for NEA Service)

Spices and herbs add to the desirability of food. A pinch of cinnamon or a dash of thyme change the flavor of otherwise common place foods. Some of these herbs actually increase the flow of digestive fluids in the body. In any case, eating is more pleasant when the flavor is changed.

Ordinary life activities frequently bore us because they are so routine or so repetitive. The lack of variation makes us weary. This tedium is relieved when we bring our spiritual principles into play. Life becomes more desirable when the commonplace is touched with God's flavor.

Prayer changes things. Thinking about our service to man and to God makes living more worth while. Studying the miraculous powers of God over the universe inspires us to a point of satisfaction. Peace replaces the confusion of nervous strain. The spiritual spices of life add much to its flavor.

I. F. W. C. Chairman, Music Students Heard At Harrisburg Woman's Club

Mrs. J. L. Miller, 24th district president of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, introduced the guest speaker at the regular club meeting held in the club rooms of the library Monday afternoon. The speaker, Mrs. William Hastie, American Home chairman of the I. F. W. C., is a resident of Carterville and is a personal friend of Mrs. Miller in addition to being an associate in club work. Mrs. Hastie showed how the American Home is a participant in all of the departments of public interest, such as the health and welfare, youth conservation, radio and TV, and since basic religious and moral training begins in the home, all associated departments including art and music. Mrs. Hastie as former president of the 25th district of I. F. W. C. has proved herself most capable of serving as chairman of this important and all embracing committee, as she demonstrated in her talk before the club. "We live in deeds, not years," said Mrs. Hastie with a sincerity of purpose, she enthusiastically outlined some of the work that her committee and the General Federation of Women's clubs support. She seemed particularly interested in the crippled children's program and in the fields that promote the moral and religious training of children. As the grandmother of her first grandchild, 14 months old, she feels that the world of childhood is expanding for her.

Other outstanding talent heard at the meeting was the music of three students of Mrs. Pearl Sherman. Charles Rann sang "The Sea Gypsy" and in duet with Miss Lorna Dallas, sang "Where My Caravan Has Rested" and "Wanting You" from the opera, "The Student Prince." Larry Edwards played the accompaniment for the voices and played Chopin's "Polonaise" in a professional sounding and interpretive piano solo.

The meeting was opened with Mrs. W. W. Damron presiding and the pledge of allegiance to the flag followed. The devotion, given by Mrs. Ray Johnson, had as its theme "the home" and made a fitting prologue for Mrs. Hastie's address.

The business meeting followed the guests' part of the program and Mrs. Louise Walker read the minutes of the Jan. 13 meeting. Mrs. Roscoe Metcalf gave the treasurer's report and a new member, Mrs. Nell Rae Pearson, was welcomed. Mrs. Hudson Mudge and Mrs. Metcalf, who have been absent because of illness were greeted.

Announcement of the capping ceremonies to be held at Bonnell gymnasium at 8 p. m. Friday, was made by Mrs. Frank Gray and she spoke briefly of the help and interest that the Woman's club has given to this project. Some of the members of the club will serve as ushers and the executive board members have been assigned reserved seats.

The next meeting of the club will be the annual Silver Tea Feb.

Star of Egypt Rebekah Officers Installed

The Galatia L. O. O. F. hall was decorated with a beautiful arch of flowers and greenery flanked by lighted white candles for an installation ceremony January 20. Those installed were the Star of Egypt Rebekah Lodge 273 officers for the coming year.

As the guests entered the hall they were greeted by Jeanette Campbell, the retiring noble grand. There was a presentation of the flag ceremony by Don Price followed by a tribute to the flag given by Mozelle Spencer. Rev. Dean Guye was the speaker for the evening and his subject was "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" Sam Wallace, accompanied at the piano by Helen Asbell, sang "He."

Farmers May Use Option in Filing Returns

Self-employed farmers may use an alternate method for figuring their earnings from their farm. E. Bishop Hill, district manager of the Harrisburg Social Security Administration Office, and H. J. White, District Director of Internal Revenue, reminded farm operators today.

They pointed out that self-employed farmers may figure their earnings for social security in several ways.

(1) If your gross income from agricultural self-employment is not more than $1800, you may count as your net earnings either your actual net or 23 of your farm gross income.

(2) If your gross farm income is more than $1800, and your net farm earnings are less than $1200, you may use either your actual net or $1200.

(3) If your gross farm income is more than $1800 and your net farm earnings are $1200 or more, you must use the actual amount of your net earnings.

Mr. Hill and Mr. White added that use of the option will enable farmers with gross income as low as $600 to obtain social security protection for themselves in their old age and for their survivors in case of death. However, he emphasized that regardless of the way in which you figure your net earnings, you must have net earnings of at least $400 (from farming alone, or in combination with other SE earnings) in order to get social security credit for the year.

In addition to the revised optional method, the 1956 amendments extended social security coverage to some farm owners who receive cash or crop shares from tenant farmers. If the farm-landlord under his agreement with his tenant, materially participates in the production of the farm crops raised on his land, this income, formerly excluded as rental income, may be reported for social security purposes. This provision is effective for taxable years ending after 1955.

Requests for information regarding taxes due and tax return forms should be directed to the Internal Revenue Office at Springfield. Questions concerning the old-age, survivors, and disability insurance program will be answered by the social security office at Harrisburg.

58 Per Cent U. S. Planes Built Before '48

MADISON, Wis. — The Civil Aeronautics Administration reports that 58 per cent of the 87,531 registered aircraft in the country were built before 1948.

DC-3's account for more than one-fifth of the aircraft flying scheduled service according to the CAA. No planes of this type have been built since 1945.

The number of private planes per population is highest in the western states of Montana, Nevada, Wyoming, South Dakota and Idaho, with ratios of one for every 696 persons to one for every 967.

19 Persons, Including 10 Children, Killed in Outbreak of Fires

By United Press
An outbreak of fires, including one of the worst blazes in Keokuk, Iowa, history, swept the nation, hitting hardest at the helpless, the children and the aged.
A United Press survey showed that at least 10 children have been killed in fires since Monday. There were 19 known deaths by fire across the nation.
Among the dead were five elderly men in Des Moines, Iowa; a family of five at Hesperia, La.; a young mother and three children at Graysville, Tenn.; a mother and two children at Pilot Knob, Ind., and two children in Chicago.
At Des Moines, a blaze started in a cafe kitchen and quickly spread into the upper floors of a "walkup" hotel, the Olympia. In the confusion of smoke and flames, five elderly men were trapped while firemen rescued 15 other residents from the second and third floors.
Killed were Joe Ingersoll, 69,

Melvin Allen, about 75, Orien Immel, 62, and Everett Dean Martin, 75. The fifth body was burned beyond recognition.
Wouldn't Leave House
Authorities blamed an open fire place for a blaze which destroyed a two-room frame home at Hesperia. The five Negro victims were Elgie Tippet, 24, his wife, Drian, 22, and their children, Elgie Jr., 9 months, Bertha, 2, and Mary Lou, 3.
A garage worker, Jim Sneed, told officials he came upon the flaming home of Mrs. Frances Smith, 25, at Graysville, but was unable to gain entry either by a door or window. Sneed said he saw Mrs. Smith, a divorcee, and shouted to her that her house was on fire.
"She answered 'I know it' and made no attempt to leave," Sneed said.
He heard the screams of the dying children, Sneed said, but was unable to do anything. The dead were Mrs. Smith, and her children, Aline, 8, Frieda Gail, 3 and William Augustus, 1.
At Pilot Knob, a mother died with two of her children when she ran back into her blazing home in an attempt to rescue them. Clyde Onstott, 38, said he was chopping wood in a shed nearby but did not know the house was on fire until he heard his wife Mildred, 34, scream.
Another Tenement Burns
Police blamed the blaze on a defective flue. Mrs. Onstott and two daughters, Ella Marie, 4, and Ann Frances, 9, were killed. Three other Onstott children were reported in serious condition.
A fire Monday night in a converted flat on Chicago's South Side killed two sisters, Clara Hudson, 3, and Regina, 10 months. Authorities held the owner of the building who they said admitted the gas line leading into the building had been illegally tapped. Witnesses said an explosion preceded the fire.
The deaths of the Hudson children brought to 13 the number of persons killed in Chicago tenement fires since Jan. 20.
Damages as high as a half-million dollars were estimated in the fire that destroyed two buildings in the heart of the Keokuk business district and damaged two others.
For more than four hours Monday night, fire departments from Keokuk, Fort Madison, Montrose, all in Iowa and Hamilton, Ill., and Weyland, Mo., combatted the blaze. Twice the fire was reported under control, only to flare up again.

Benson Says U. S. Cannot Afford Price Supports

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson said today in an attack on current farm price supports the United States "just can't afford to waste land, manpower, machinery, gasoline, tires, and electricity in producing foods and fiber for storage far in excess of sensible reserves."
"It is sheer economic waste to produce through government incentive products that are not needed," Benson said. He added that "no people—no country—faced with our current challenge of cold war is rich enough to afford such downright waste indefinitely."
Benson attacked existing farm law in a speech prepared for delivery to the annual meeting of the Ruritan National, an organization composed of farmers, business and professional men.
He said the cost of programs primarily for stabilization of farm prices and income since 1950 has totalled close to 10 billion dollars.

Friday Last Day to File Bid to Place Farms in Soil Bank

Friday, January 31, 1958 is the last day to file a bid to place entire farms in the 1958 Soil Bank program, B. R. Gholson, manager of the Saline County ASC office, announced today. It is also the last day for requesting cancellation of bids already submitted.
Mr. Gholson points out that after a bid is accepted by the Department of Agriculture the producer cannot cancel his contract except where unexpected circumstances have developed since the offer was submitted. All such cases will need to be carefully investigated and completely documented, if the county committee permits with drawal after the deadline date. Anyone who since placing their bid now considers the offer unfair to themselves, or to the Department of Agriculture, should take advantage of the cancellation privilege which ends January 31st. Such requests must be submitted in writing to the county office in city hall, Harrisburg.
All farmers should realize that bids may be accepted at different rates per acre for comparable farms in the same neighborhood. This is one part of the bid procedure which is different than the operation of most other farm programs. Mr. Gholson pointed out that after a bid is accepted it will again be reviewed by the county committee and all provisions of the contract discussed with the farmer. There have been 120 bids submitted to the county office. It is expected that all producers will be notified by about Feb. 15 whether their offers have been accepted or rejected.

Matter of FACT

The first circuses known were held in a huge arena in ancient Rome. The main attraction was chariot races. Between races, acrobats, tight-rope walkers and horsemen performed. The circus as we know it today had its start in the 18th century English "van shows" in which troupes of acrobats and jugglers traveled from place to place in vans which were used as dressing rooms.

NEA Declares Ike Education Plan Inadequate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Education Assn. and two Democratic leaders in education complained today that President Eisenhower's billion-dollar school program is inadequate.
But administration officials predicted the space-age plan to produce more scientists and engineers to meet Russia's challenge would raise the nation's basic standards of education in all fields.
The NEA drew a bead on failure of the administration to include "enough space in our schools" to allow every student to attend a full day in uncrowded classrooms.
Declaring the President's program "greatly underestimates" existing needs, NEA Executive Secretary William T. Carr said there should be a top priority on not only building more classrooms but also improving teacher salaries.
Informed sources said the Little Rock school integration crisis played a part in the administration's decision to shelve a school construction program this year despite Soviet scientific successes. Officials figured the controversy over sending in federal troops to enforce an integration order would subtract support from the measure, which was turned down last year.
Chairman Lister Hill of the Senate Education Committee and Rep. Carl Elliott, head of a House Education subcommittee, urged a bigger program than the billion-dollar, four-year plan President Eisenhower sent Congress Monday.

Troop Pull-Out From Manila Begins

MANILA (AP)—U. S. Ambassador to the Philippines Charles E. Bohlen said today American military forces expect to complete an intensified pull-out from Manila by next July 31. In a note delivered to the foreign office, Bohlen said stepped-up evacuation of the Manila Air Station by U. S. military forces will begin this week. He said this was made possible by the conclusion of arrangements for a commercial concern to handle U. S. military cargo through the port of Manila.

Meadowlark Leaving Marion Earlier

The Meadowlark, C&E passenger train to Chicago, effective last Sunday is leaving Marion more than two hours earlier in the morning.
This train, which formerly departed at 6:44 a. m., now leaves at 4:28 a. m. It arrives in Chicago at 11:28 a. m.
Under the new procedure, the train now goes over to Danville and connects with the Georgian, a C&E passenger train going to Chicago from Indiana.

Director Lists Rules for Deducting Taxes in Filing Personal Income Returns

H. J. White, Director of the Internal Revenue Service for this district today explained the rules for deducting taxes paid when filing your personal income tax return for 1957.
If you itemize deductions on page 2 of Form 1040, you can deduct most state and local taxes. Federal taxes are never deductible except for certain ones paid in connection with a business or profession.
You CAN deduct:
Personal property taxes
State income taxes
Real estate taxes
State or local sales taxes
State gasoline taxes
Auto license fees
State capitation or poll taxes.
You CANNOT deduct:
Any Federal excise taxes paid on your personal expenditures, such as taxes on theater admissions, furs, jewelry, cosmetics, transportation, telephone, etc.
Federal social security taxes
Hunting licenses
Dog licenses
Water taxes
Auto inspection fees
Taxes paid for another person.
Cigarette taxes are deductible by the consumer in only a few of the 48 states. Your local Internal Revenue office can advise you on this regarding your State.
If you had State income taxes withheld from your salary or if you made estimated State income tax payments under a pay-as-you-go plan, you can deduct such amounts.
Whenever real estate is sold, the deduction for real estate taxes is apportioned between the buyer and the seller according to the number of days in the real property tax year that each held the property. The tax is apportioned to the seller up to but not including the date of sale and to the buyer beginning with the date of sale, regardless of the accrual or lien dates under local law.
If you are a tenant-stockholder in a cooperative housing or apartment corporation you can deduct your proportionate share of the real estate taxes paid by the cooperative.
In most cases, you are not permitted to deduct taxes assessed for pavements or other local improvements, including front-foot benefits, which tend to increase the value of your property. You cannot deduct Social Security taxes paid on the wages of your maid or other domestic help.
And you cannot deduct Social Security taxes or Railroad Retirement taxes withheld from your wages by your employer, nor may you deduct any self-employment tax you pay on your earnings from self-employment.
Mr. White advised taxpayers who have questions regarding the deduction of taxes paid or any other matter on 1957 to telephone or visit the local office of the Internal Revenue Service. The local office may be reached by telephone CL 3-7993. The address of the local office is 111½ North Main street, Harrisburg.

Ronnie Gibbs, Top Official, Tells of Letters, Taunts After Close Games

Addresses First Meeting Harrisburg Boosters Club

Fans who "get on" area football and basketball officials might be surprised to learn that the top official in the United States has been the object of burning letters and taunts during and after close contests.

Top man in the game is Ronnie Gibbs, who spoke last night at the Masonic temple at the first meeting of the Harrisburg Boosters Club.

Most persons might believe that the best in the business are not challenged or blistered, that that isn't the case, and Gibbs gave lots of examples.

He read several letters he had received from fans after their teams had lost close games in which he had officiated. He told of one letter from Florida addressed simply to "Worst Referee in the United States," and that it came to him at Springfield.

Jumped by Fans

He refereed a CCNY-Bradley basketball game in New York City for the NCAA national championship, won by CCNY by a close score. Bradley fans jumped him good by mail, he said. One thing he received, he added, was a commode, which was a trophy for being the most valuable player for CCNY. Also in the package, he said, was a watch, which turned out to be only the case.

"Next time you come to Peoria we'll give you the works," a note said.

One time, he said, he heard a cage player make a remark after he had called a play.

"What did you say?" Gibbs said to the player.

"Guess," replied the player. "You've been guessing all night anyway."

Praises Hunsinger

But most of Mr. Gibbs' remarks to the 65 sports boosters were about professional football, with which he has been associated the past 18 years during a career of 37 years of officiating.

After declaring in all his officiating he had never known a dishonest sports official, he declared that professional football is definitely an honest game. Players really play to win but there are no

"hatchet men," as some believe, he declared. "Hatchet men" would be those sent into a game to deliberately put out of commission some valuable member of the opposing eleven.

Mr. Gibbs, who knew Charles Hunsinger of Harrisburg as a pro player with the Chicago Bears, praised the local athlete as a football player. Quite a bit of his reminiscing was about the Bears and their owner and former coach, Charles Halas.

Tension Hurts Players

He named his all-star pro backfield for the period he has been officiating pro games as follows: Sid Luckman, quarterback; George McAfee, halfback; Red Grange, halfback; Jim Thorpe, fullback.

Mr. Gibbs said the worst enemy of top performance is tension, that great athletes make things look easy.

Ed Brantley, president of the club, announced that at the next meeting on Feb. 24, the speaker will be Paul McKinnis of Eldorado, a former Big Ten basketball official who is an extremely witty speaker. Robert L. Burnes, sports editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, will speak in March.

Illinois Gymnasts Top SIU, 70-40

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Illinois beat Southern Illinois University Monday night, 70-40, in a dual gymnastics meet.

Illinois won all seven events. Outstanding performer was former Olympic champion Abe Grossfield, who garnered 24 points by winning the free exercise, the high bar, the parallel bar and the still rings.

Other Illini winners were Frank Halland, tumbling and trampoline, and John Davis, side horse.

Roy Campanella Breaks Neck In Auto Accident

GLEN COVE, N. Y. — Los Angeles Dodger catcher Roy Campanella broke his neck early today when his automobile skidded on a slippery street and crashed into a light pole.

Doctors at Glen Cove Community Hospital placed the jinx-ridden catcher on the critical list immediately after X-rays indicated the extent of his injury.

The broken neck was the latest and most serious in a series of injuries that has plagued Campanella since he began his career in major league baseball more than 10 years ago.

First reading of the wet X-ray led doctors to believe Campanella had a broken spine. But a subsequent reading disclosed that his neck had been fractured.

Campanella was alone and driving his own automobile when the accident happened in the early morning darkness.

The automobile overturned and Campanella was pinned beneath its wreckage. Attendants in a police ambulance had to extricate him.

Campanella, who three times has won the National League's "most valuable player" award, has had a brilliant but unlucky career since he began playing for the Dodgers in 1948. He won the awards in 1951, 1953 and 1955.

In recent seasons, he has been hampered by hand injuries. He had bone chips removed from his right hand after the 1956 season but still was hampered in 1957 when he batted .342.

Only last year he said: "I feel like I can go on forever. Those people who think I'm reaching the end of the road are badly mistaken. And I'll prove it if I can avoid injuries."

Quincy N. Dame Tops Herrin In Cage Ratings

By United Press

In the closest balloting yet this season, Quincy Notre Dame today took over top spot in the United Press weekly high school basketball ratings.

Reflecting the fact that six of last week's top 15 were beaten during the weekend, the first place ballots by the "Sweet Sixteen" coaches board were divided among six teams.

Notre Dame was named first on four ballots, West Frankfort on three, Herrin, Pekin and Rock Falls on two each, and Peoria Spalding on one.

Canton, ranked 13th last week, dropped out of the top 15 after two straight weekend defeats and was replaced by Marnion Military Academy.

Herrin, which Friday avenged an earlier 1-point loss to West Frankfort, moved up to second in the poll, followed by Pekin, West Frankfort and Rock Falls.

Spalding, which lost its first game of the season Friday, dropped to sixth. Springfield Lanphier, the only unbeaten team still in the top 15, moved up from ninth to seventh. Rock Island was eighth, Rockford East skidded to ninth, and Collinsville advanced to 10th.

Maywood Proviso was 11th. Mount Vernon moved up three notches to 12th, Evanston was 13th, Mount Carmel 14th and newcomer Marnion Military was 15th.

Other teams receiving votes were Moline, Canton, Mattoon, Galesburg, Rockford West, Jacksonville, Edwardsville, Thornton Elmhurst, York, Elgin, Shelbyville, Springfield High, Effingham St. Anthony, New Trier, Belleville, Duplo, and La Salle-Peru.

The top 15 with won-lost records and vote totals were:

1. Quincy Notre Dame 15-1 180
2. Herrin 17-2 174
3. Pekin 12-1 155
4. West Frankfort 15-2 153
5. Rock Falls 16-1 152
6. Peoria Spalding 14-1 147
7. Spfld. Lanphier 14-0 122
8. Rock Island 14-2 115
9. Rockford East 13-2 86
10. Collinsville 15-2 82
11. Maywood Proviso 10-1 69
12. Mount Vernon 14-2 55
13. Evanston 9-2 52
14. Mount Carmel 13-2 38
15. Marnion M. A. 16-2 29

Duke Tumbles W. Virginia From Unbeaten, 72-68; OSU Edges Purdue, 75-73

By United Press

West Virginia's first defeat of the season was attributed today to a "home court jinx" and "the Carolina air" among other things, but the plain, unvarnished truth is that Duke's inspired Blue Devils simply out-fused and out-ran the mighty Mountaineers.

By upsetting top-ranked West Virginia, 72-68, at Durham, N. C., Monday night, the Blue Devils snapped the Mountaineers' 14-game winning streak and maintained their record of never having lost to the West Virginians in Duke's indoor stadium.

Harris Puts it on Ice

Forward Bob Smith, individual high scorer with 24 points, almost pulled the game out for West Virginia by registering 16 of his points in the second half. Guard Bobby Joe Harris finally put Duke ahead to stay, 60-59, however, with six minutes left and the Blue Devils ran their lead to seven points with a minute and a half left.

West Virginia, which earlier this season had snapped North Carolina's 37-game winning streak, thus fell from the ranks of the unbeaten. The only perfect team in the major college ranks is St. John's, winner of all nine of its games.

Duke's victory over the Mountaineers, however, was only one of the many upsets which marked Monday night's activity.

Unheralded Houston toppled sixth-ranked Oklahoma State, 70-64, ending the Cowpokes' 12-game winning streak at Houston, Tex. Georgia Tech engineered another upset in beating 10th-ranked Kentucky, 71-52, to move into a tie with the Wildcats for the Southeastern conference lead.

OSU, Northwestern Win

Ohio State edged Purdue, 75-73, and Northwestern turned back Minnesota, 85-76, in a pair of Big Ten games.

Xavier of Ohio won 76-65 over LaSalle of Philadelphia and North Texas State earned a 59-57 decision over favored Tulsa, while Marquette defeated Toledo, 58-55.

Wheaton College, the nation's No. 1 small college basketball team, crushed Wayne State University, 88-54. Elgin Baylor's 23 points sparked Seattle to a 75-67 triumph over Santa Clara.

In other games, Georgia defeated South Carolina, 84-63; Seton Hall humbled St. Francis, N. Y., 79-74; Mississippi State defeated Southeastern Louisiana, 75-61; Alabama crushed Howard, 105-44; Idaho State beat St. Mary's, Calif., 70-58, and Arizona (Tempe) State topped West Texas State, 88-80.

THE STORY: As Ward Sebastian takes his mule train into Yreka, he runs afoul of Provo Holt and Yancey McCloud, two men he has no use for. Ward was wounded on the trail by another man, not one of the Modoc warriors who have been attacking settlers.

Yancey's answer was another cut of the rope and this time it spatted across his shoulders, the impact solid and hurting, even through the thickness of his heavy, blanket-lined coat. Edgy from fatigue and pain and harsh memories, he knew a fresh gust of bitter anger.

He sent his horse sharply ahead and had a mounted figure in front of him. The rope end was swinging again, but this time he was well inside the arc of it and it wrapped harmlessly about his shoulders. Standing high in his stirrups, he threw his anger into the drive of his right fist.

His target was just a dark and moving blur, but the blow landed solidly. Yancey McCloud, reeling in his saddle, swung wide as he fought to regain his balance, and when he did so he ducked low along his mount's neck and spurred into the clear.

Another rider moved even with Sebastian, driving the remainder of the pack animals ahead of him. Though just a shadow in the gloom, there was, thought Sebastian bleakly, no mistaking Provo Holt. For, when you utterly despised a man, and he in turn hated you fanatically, then there was no need to see clearly to know recognition. In visible currents of feeling could be as certain as sight or sound.

Provo Holt would have ridden by in silence, but Sebastian tossed a question that was a curt challenge.

"You have a man anywhere in the neighborhood of Sheet Iron Butte today, Holt?"

Holt only partially reined up. "If I did, that would be my business and none of yours."

"Don't be too sure of that. I could be wondering about Jake Ruby."

"What about Jake Ruby?" Provo Holt kept his horse sidling along. "This!" said Sebastian. "When you see him again, and if he's limping, tell him he better head across the mountains, for good! Because I'll be looking for him if he's limping, mind you!"

To this, Provo Holt gave no further answer, and his restless horse carried him on into the night.

The animals cared for, Dan Oregut and his two men went off about their chores. Sebastian and Sam Lester stood for a little time under the wide overhang of the feed shed.

"Not having cat eyes," said Sam, "I couldn't see that far in the dark. But I heard Yancey McCloud cussin' and I heard you warn him about something. Right after which, he quit his cussin' sudden as though his wind pipe had been cut. Anything happen out there by the corral gate I should know about?"

Sebastian told it briefly. "When he took another cut with the rope and reached me, I bounced my knuckles off his teeth."

"He's become a surly dog," Sam growled. "Did he hit the bad arm?"

Sebastian's fingers explored gingerly. "Never touched it. Lucky for me. Lucky for him, too, maybe."

They went up Oregon Street which, in spite of the night, the raw wind and the sleety rain which had begun to fall again, seethed with activity. Heavy freight and supply wagons, soggy canvas tops drumming in the wind, lumbered by.

Working their way through the crush, Sam Lester made sarcastic comment.

"If it takes all these goings on by the military, along with what they already got scattered around back at the lake, just to corral Captain Jack and mebbe 60 Modoc braves, then, as one of these here noble palefaces I figger I got little to brag about. Matter of fact, I'm getting smaller by the minute."

Sam went along to Molly MacGruder's boarding house, farther up Oregon. Sebastian turned down Miner to a big, square building with a galleried porch reaching all across the front of it.

Sebastian climbed the porch steps, paused short of the door to shake the worst of the wet from himself.

Abruptly two hurrying figures climbed to the shelter of the porch. A girl's bright and breathless laughter lifted, followed by a man's wry comment.

"This may be all stirring adventure to you, Connie, but for me I can see little ahead except a lot of discomfort in a world filled with very foul weather."

The girl laughed again. "Wasn't it field duty both you and Phil were howling for, Jud? Don't tell me you're losing your taste for it already!"

Ward Sebastian followed them into the big combined store and trading post, and at the near end of the counter, laid down his rifle and saddlebags. Several customers were lined at the counter and old Ben Stiles had left his high stool and ledger desk to help Jeff Chesbro take care of them. The officer and the girl paused a little apart, waiting their turn.

Sebastian shrugged out of his coat, drawing a long breath of relief when finally free of its weight. In maneuvering his left arm he worked with care. Even so his lips tightened under the bite of a sudden twinge of pain.

With bent head and carefully probing fingers he explored the bandanna which bandaged the arm. It was stiffened with dried blood.

Douglas Urges Gov't to Push Full Prosperity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) said Monday the government should set its sights on an "across-the-board prosperity" instead of "aiming at a one shot stimulus concentrated on defense expenditures."

Douglas said the nation today is faced with an economic situation "somewhat similar" to that of 1954 when he aroused the ire of Republican leaders by saying that the U. S. was in an "economic recession."

"I suppose that it would again throw the Republicans into a paroxysm and the administration into a temper tantrum to refer to the present trend as a 'recession,'" Douglas said.

"But if it is not this, will our Republican friends kindly tell us the term which would best describe what is and has been going on? For me, I know of no better description than that which I gave in 1954, and prior to that in 1949, as well."

Douglas made his remarks in an address before the National Women's Democratic Club.

"The chin-out boys believe they can at once provide for the national defense and ward off a depression by spending in the next six months what they improperly cut out during the previous half year . . ." Douglas said.

Douglas said the government should build up consuming power by reducing taxes of lower and middle income groups, aiding the farmer and promoting "socially necessary public works such as hospitals, schools and housing for those who most need it."

He also said "monopolies and price rings" should be forced to cut prices to bring consumer goods within reach of prospective buyers' incomes. No other river except the Nile rises at the equator and flows into the temperate zone.
